

Do you have ideas to make SRHR climate - resilient?

Climate change affects everything, even sexual and reproductive health and rights.

Submit your video pitch now & win up to 50,000 BDT!

Open to all university and medical college students!

For more information:

Submission deadline:

20 November 2024

Ipas
BANGLADESH

NextGen SRHR Solutions

We need fresh, sustainable solutions that address both immediate and long-term climate-related SRHR challenges. Your ideas could help improve SRHR services in Bangladesh as we confront the ongoing effects of climate change.

Submit your video pitch here

Submission deadline:
20 November 2024

This competition invites university, and medical students like you to develop innovative solutions. We want you to think creatively about how to address both the gradual and acute impacts of climate change on SRHR. Why is this important? Because if we make our SRHR services 'climate resilient,' we can:

- Maintain care during both gradual climate changes and sudden crises
- Protect the most vulnerable populations from ongoing climate related health risks
- Promote long term health equity for all

By participating in this competition, you can:

- Share your innovative and practical ideas
- Make a meaningful impact in SRHR in Bangladesh
- Become a contributor to tackling these crucial issues

Are you ready to make a difference?